

described in the original FODA report. This report also documents the continuing work of applying FODA to the movement control domain. The design and Ada code examples for the domain used in the document are from prototype software, created in part to test the processes presented.